PRES. LYNCH VISITS COLEMAN

And Makes Fraternal Order of Eagles Aerie an Official Visit—Good Time

Fred J. Lynch, of New Westminster B.C., Dep. Grand Worthy President of the Fraternal Order of Eagles paid the local Aerie an official visit at their last regular meeting and was greeted with a large and enthusiastic attendance.

During the evening Bro.
Lynch reviewed the work of the Order for the last year and dealt with some matters of importance to the local Aerie.
The Order is just now undergoing what is termed a tuning-up period and it is surprising to know that such a large number as stated by the Deputy Grand President have been suspended as undesirable.

Bro. Lynch is visiting all of the Aeries in his jurisdiction which extends as far east as Winnipeg, for the purpose of making himself acquainted with local conditions, before attending the Grand Aerie session to be held at St. Louis next month.

He was impressed with the progress made by Coleman Aerie and expressed himself as greatly pleased with the interest shown by the members and especially that they are soon to have a Hall of their own which will be one of the finest east of Nelson.

At the next session of the Grand Aerie an effort will be made to establish Provincial Aeries throughout Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia.
This is confidently expected to be done in the near future.

Mr. Lynch is President of the New Westminster Lacrosse team, Champions of the world.

A GRIZZLY ROPED

The grizzly still haunts the tall timbers surrounding Coleman. At McLaren's camp No.
4, on June 17th, a two hundred pound youngster was neatly trapped and roped by bush superintendent E. A. Ritchie.
Traces of the big fellow had been detected and as a result a trap was set.

Several days afterwards Bruin was discovered in the trap, one of his forepaws being held fast. Messrs Ritchie and Paris then roped the bear and took him to camp.

He commenced to pine and fade away. Much to the agreeable surprise of all the lumbermen, bear outlets were one day last week put on the menu card. Everyone in the camp is now on the lookout for another recurrence of the relish on the menu list.

CROWN VS. GRAND UNION

The case of the Crown versus L. A. Manly, proprietor of the Grand Union hotel, was heard last Friday morning. Magistrate Disney presided. As the Crown withdrew, no evidence was given at all and the magistrate dismissed the case.
There was no evidence to sus-tain the charge, that of selling liquor in wholesale quantities.
It appears that some personal animosities were much in evidence in this case. The Grand Union is one of the best of its class in the Pass and always run satisfactory to the public.

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS BABY

Mrs. M. Barnes,
for Mrs. M. Barnes, Montreal, says:
"A horrid rash came out all over my baby's face and spread until it had totally covered his scalp.
It was irritating and painful, and caused the little one hours of suffering. We tried teasps and powders and salves, but he got no better. He refused his food, got quite thin and worn, and was reduced to a very terrible condition. I was advised to try Zam-Buk, and did so. It was wonderful how it seemed to cool and ease the child's burning, painful skin. Within a few days the rash grew less and less. Within a few weeks my baby's skin was healed completely. He has now not a trace of rash, or eruption, or eczema, or burning sore. Not only so, but cured of the tormenting skin trouble, he has improved in general health."

Zam-Buk is sold at all stores and medicine shops, a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for five cents. A box of 100 for all skin diseases, cuts, burns, etc., and for itching, is sold for 50 cents.

100¢—REWARD—100¢

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood, and mucous surfaces of the system; thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors do not believe in a cure that is only a matter of time. They believe in a cure that will be permanent. Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list Biggs—"Do you believe that the use of tobacco impairs the memory?" Diggs—"Not necessarily. I haven't been able to forget that cigar you gave me two weeks ago—but perhaps there was no tobacco in it."

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

Physician—"I have told you to take long walks in the open air, and you are not doing it." Confirmed Dyspeptic—"I know it, doctor, but you told me I was to take them on an empty stomach."

When going away from home, or at any change of habitat, he is a wise man who carries with him a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. Change of food and water in some strange place where there are no doctors may bring on an attack of dysentery. He then has a standard remedy at hand with which to cope with the disorder, and forearmed he can successfully fight the ailment and subdue it.

"My wife," he proudly said, "has made me what I am." "That's the way with a man," replied Mrs. Strong-mind. "Always blaming it on the woman."

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians

"I pride myself on the fact," said the haggard-looking post, "that I have never written a line which my father might not read to his daughter."

"That is," added the philosopher,
"if by any chance he should think it worth while to do so."

Train Girls to Be Colonists

Lady Ernestine Hunt, the noted horsemanship and travel writer, has established a school at Gosham Park, near Portsmouth, where she is training girls to become efficient colonists. The girls, who are from eighteen years old upwards, are taught horsemanship, needlework, the making of a good dress, gardening, riding and driving. No servants are kept, all the house and stable work being done by the pupils, who ride astride.

"What's your order, sir?" asked the waiter.

"Bring me," said the wild eyed customer, "some medium boiled potatoes and some eggs with the jackets on."

"I don't know whether I've got that right or not, waiter," said the wild eyed man, "but do the best you can with it. A big red automobile had to jump out of my way about two minutes ago to keep me from running over it, and I'm a bit flustered."

Consul Edwin N. Cunnahs, of Johannesburg, reports that the consumption of iron and steel in the Transvaal mines is estimated at $6,000,000 yearly, valued at $4,500,000. Of this, $3,000,000 consist of rails, sleepers, pipes and fittings, rock drills, etc.
"Especially," he adds, "the rails, of whose principal offices are in Johannesburg, also buys 30,000 tons of rails and sleepers annually."

A Little Wisdom

You can turn a crank down, but he always turns up.

A woman who loved for her virtues, and adored for her weaknesses.
The world expects a man to make a fool of himself over a woman, but it never forgives a woman who makes a fool of herself over a man.

To know thyself is wisdom; to know how to impart that knowledge to others—that's cleverness.—Smart Set.

It is a Liver Pill—Many of the allments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many regular sufferers from the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parnell's Vegetable Pills.

Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

"Tommy," said the boss, "you quit smoking two or three months ago, didn't you?"
"Yes, sir," answered the office boy.
"How much have you gained in weight?"
"Well, sir, countin' it in nickles I reckon I've gained about four pounds."

Country Editor—"I'm glad you bracketed me in your post early." Boring Post—"Yes, sir."

Country Editor (putting them in the stove)—"The most serious need wait till the weather gets too warm to use them."

WOMAN'S CHARMS

Of Skin, Hands and Hair Preserved

For preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands; for allaying minor irritations of the skin and for preventing the aging from becoming chronic; for imparting a velvety softness to the skin; for sensitive, antiseptic cleaning and, in short, for every use in promoting skin and hair health and bodily rarity, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are unsurpassed. In the sneaky and economical treatment of torturing, disfiguring eczemas, rashes, itchiness and inflammations, Cuticura succeeds when all else fails.

Milliner's assistant—"That feather, madam, makes you look ten years younger."

Antique Lull—"Then I'll take the feather. But I think, perhaps, a second feather might make it even more becoming."

"I was born in a log cabin on a farm," began the tramp, but he got no further.

"Is this all you have made of such splendid opportunities?" cried the man he bowed to touch. "You deserve to be hung by the neck."

And he angrily passed along.

A Corroder of Pulmonary Troubles.
Many testimonials could be presented showing the great efficacy of Dr.
Thomas' Electric Oil in curing disorders of the respiratory processes, but the best testimony is experience, and the Oil is recommended to all who suffer from these disorders with the certainty that they will find relief. It will allay inflammation in the bronchial tubes as no other preparation can.

Wearied with his everlasting hike, the Wandering Jew stopped to rest.
"What's the use?" he exclaimed. "I can't keep up with old man Weston to save my life! He's forty miles ahead of me, and he's like a tiger!"

Running a trembling hand through his flowing beard, he proceeded to heap a few choice maledictions on the day of his birth.

Africa's Color Problem.
Replying to the toast of his health at a farewell banquet given by the Chamber of Mines at Johannesburg, Lord Selborne spoke about the colored race in South Africa who were not natives—people of partly white and partly black origin. He believed the tendency to drive colored people down to the position of Kaffirs was unjust and untrue, because they of ten had the thoughts and feelings of the white man, and, one day we might have to face a great concerted movement of native races. Lord Selborne prophesied that in the event of such a terrible catastrophe they would find the leader of the native race to be a colored man with the feelings, character, and superiority of the white man. If they persisted in the tendency to degrade the colored people to the condition of the natives.

AFGHAN AMENITIES.

Jealous Natives Cut Off Their Wives' Noses.

Dr. Theodore L. Pennell, a medical missionary, lecturing at the Caxton Hall, London, recently, on his experiences in the Northwest Frontier of India, said while at Bannu it was an unusual thing to be called upon to supply artificial noses for the wives of men who, in a fit of jealousy, had cut off the ends of the noses of their women folk.

One man who had done his wife's nose off altogether was told by the doctor that, in order to make a good job of the repair, it would be necessary to send to England for an artificial nose.

On being told that the cost would be thirty rupees the man hesitated.
Asked the reason of his hesitation, the man said, "Well, it's this way, sahib, I can get a new saddle for eighty rupees." (Laughter.) "However," proceeded the doctor, "he agreed eventually to let the old wife have her nose repaired."

"Every year," he added, "we are called upon to make new noses, and some of the ladies are very well satisfied with the result."

Robbery and brigandage were the profession of some of the tribes.
The British soldiers, each of whom was born his mother usually placed him in a hole in the wall of the mud-house, and said to him, "Learn to be a thief."

The thief was largely done by digging under the walls of the mud-houses.

The Waziris also had a sense of humor. Last year there was a certain number of chiefs at a certain meeting to meet a political officer respecting the affairs of the tribes.
Having been sumptuously entertained, they presented the officer with a beautiful antelope as a mark of appreciation.

Before the chiefs had reached their hills on the return journey a message arrived stating that an antelope had been stolen from the house of a Nawab.

Speaking of the blood feuds of the various tribes, Dr. Pennell said these were so intense that it was only possible to cultivate land within gunshot range of the villages, each of which possessed a gun tower with loopholes for firing. Each man worked in the fields with a rifle over his shoulder and cartridges in his belt, in order to be ready for all emergencies.

European surgery were naturally much appreciated, and a doctor could pass from one tribe to another without fear, in fact, each tribe would provide him with an escort to the boundary of the next tribe.

Speaking of the cons to the hospital at Bannu from as far away as Cabul, and often there would arrive at the hospital a string of the blind, each carrying a stick, and in front of a man who could see a little leading the rest.

In the course of an interview with a reporter, Dr. Pennell gave another illustration of matrimonial jealousy among the border tribes.

"One day," he said, "an Afghan chief who had been across the border came back and saw his wife speaking to a man over the wall in his compound. He at once drew his sword, went out, and threatened to kill the man, saying, 'If you want to speak to her now, you can.'"

"Maintaining the hospital as the victims of frontier raids. One man who was admitted there for treatment had been shot by his uncle. A bullet had gone through his lung, but careful nursing pulled him through.

"When he was convalescent," said Dr. Pennell, "one day he came to his bedside and said, 'Oh, sahib, I want you to give me some cartridges.'" I said, "What do you want the cartridges for?" Pointing to his chest he replied, "I have this score to pay."

"I said, 'I am very sorry to hear that. We have a difficult task to cure you, and now very shortly we shall have the same trouble with your uncle.' He said, 'Oh, no, you don't.
I'm afraid of that, sahib. I am a better shot than he is.' We did not get the uncle in, and he heard eventually that he had killed him."

Surrounded by Blacks.
A thrilling tale of five English officers, who were native troops, having been besieged for three months by cannibal hordes comes from Oubundi in Southern Nigeria. The besieging Munchies are almost the only Negro tribe not subdued by British advance.
They are tall, powerful savages, and fight with poisoned arrows and the native sword. The British have with them a company of the Southern Nigerians. Pointing to the two Munchies who have been attacking them medicinally for three months back, and for two weeks the troops had practically no rest. Three quarters of the company were on outpost duty round the station, and the whole company was under arms every day from 3.30 a.m. till an hour after dark.
One officer sat up every night and the rest slept in their clothes. On hearing of their straight a relief force of native troops was sent out from the barracks, and after a splendid forced march, covering 300 miles by river and 100 miles by road in 6-12 days, arrived in the beleaguered post.

CLAIMS OF THE LEGITIMIST.

Princess Ludwig of Bavaria is Stuart Successor to the British Crown.

Probably but few Canadians are concerned with the claims of the legitimists to the throne of Great Brittain. The question is one of startling interest to many in Europe who still recognize for one reason or another the direct descendants of the house of the Stuarts as the true heirs to the British throne.

The Legitimists are strong enough to issue a "Legitimist Calendar," which furnishes all the court information for the adherents of the Legiti-mist claims which ordinary people find in Whittaker or Barrie.

Every year on the anniversary of his death decorations are strewn about the statues of the graves of Charles the Martyr, as they call Charles I., on the statue of the Legitimists previously, they were forbidden to place a wreath on the statue of King Charles at Whitehall. It is only fair to say the Stuart descendants do not count on the demands of their indiscreet friends.

The present Stuart descendant who would be for the throne of Southern France is the Prince Louis, Duke of Salaparuta, who is the British throne is the Princess Louise (or Ludwig) of Bavaria, born Mary Theresa Henriette, Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and formerly Archduchess of Austria-Este-Modena. As Queen of England and Scotland her title was 2,160, and she was regent of grace of God, of England, Scotland, France and Ireland Queen, Defender of the Faith, etc. She was born July 2, 1850, and she is her uncle, King Francis, Nov. 20, 1875. She married in 1868 his Royal Highness Louis, Prince of Salaparuta, who is the eldest son of the Prince Regent of Bavaria, and has had thirteen children.

In a table of descent recently compiled, and containing about 7,000 names, Queen Victoria was regarded as no more than a distant cousin by right than to be No. 4,309 on the list, while King Edward and his son George were 4,270 and 4,271 respectively, and Princess Victoria Mary came lower down on the list as No. 4,464.

Princess Louise has very quietly at Munich, and has no personal preten-sions to the throne of Britain. Her husband rules over Bavaria in place of his uncle, the mad King Otto. She is very well known in England and is popular with everyone with whom she comes in contact.

Queen Taxes.
Henry VIII. taxed his subjects, and graduated the tax according to the status of the wearer. For example the Sheriff of Canterbury was constrained to pay the tax on his billings and fourpence for the privilege of sporting his venerable whiskers. Elizabeth taxed the tax on her hair on every head of over a fortnight's growth.
Elizabeth was also bent on making the country of the religious turn of mind, and all who stayed away from church on Sunday rendered themselves liable to fine. In 1568 it was decided that the arrival of every child into the world should be greeted by a tax of one penny.

In the Balance

The date for the voting on incorporation has been announced and it now behooves every ratepayer to cast a vote on the much debated question. The pros and cons have threshed out every possible phase of townhood and it is apparent that the consensus of opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of incorporation. The citizens of Coleman realize that the town must incorporate if progress is to be continued. Coleman has outgrown its village garb and no longer seeks to wear swaddling clothes.

The opponents of incorporation fought honestly and well but the great majority of them came out lately flustered in favor of incorporation. Every day the hardships imposed under village conditions stared them in the face. The taxes frightened not a few, but the explicit explanation of Chairman Cameron, set at ease many a troubled taxpayer.

Coleman expects every property holder to do his duty.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This is the first.

Canada is just in her teens.

The town is yours, but don't paint it red.

When it rains let it be no drizzly, drawly rain.

The Premier's color in the campaign is Vermilion. His prospects are rosy.

Visit Flumerfelt Park and make its opening day one long to be remembered.

In 41 years Canada has increased seven million in population. In 1920 our census should show twenty million. By that time we will have a respectable navy and able to assist in shouldering the "white man's burden."

Every voter should turn out on election day and cast his ballot. Incorporation is a live subject and everyone should pass judgment on it.

The Board of Trade is being urged to form a publicity committee. Some maps unfortunately do not favor Coleman with a position at all.

Teddy, the only Teddy is back and in the swim. As for press news he is better than a canibalistic feast and nearly as good as the stunt of Hon. G. E. Foster in making rain fall from a clear sky, after eleven o'clock.

The increasing number of stock fatalities along the C. P. R. tracks in the vicinity of Coleman is becoming alarmingly large. The annual amount paid by the C. P. R. towards stock damages would build a decent reliable fence.

The Roblin-Bogers-Campbell gang in Manitoba are in the midst of a summer blizzard. As a proof of their political straightened circumstances, they have called on Robert Edwards to "save them." What could that MAN save them from?

R. B. Bennett has no ambitious aspirations after the leadership of the Conservative party in Alberta. Neither has the honorable Richard any desire to follow a satellite. Our Conservative friends should first get a party following and then look wise and appoint a leader.

They Are Making Canada Greater

From the Nelson Daily News

Mr. William Mackenzie and Mr. D. D. Mann, are the heads of some of the greatest commercial and industrial enterprises that Canada has yet known. Their life history is just what it should be in a growing country. The loftier the attainment of the successful, the more humble should be their beginnings. In that respect, William Mackenzie started right, with Scotch parents at Kirkville, Ont., and his first commercial experience was as the master of a general store. He said everything that the community wanted, and the general store principle has prevailed in his business career ever since, for he makes a practice of filling the long felt want wherever it exists.

For instance, he controls the gas and electric lighting and the tramway in Rio de Janeiro and at Sao Paulo, in Brazil. The stocks of these companies are a prominent feature of the Toronto stock market. An evidence of the intensive financing of the Mackenzie-scheme is found in the fact that the street lights in Rio de Janeiro probably are closer together than in any other city in the world.

While he was still young, "McKinzie," as his neighbors knew him well, did his future biographers a good turn. He met and subdued the town bully, thus laying the foundation for future greatness, for every one knows that a medium sized man in a rough, growing country never can hope to achieve true fame without calmly and effectively whipping a drunken lumber-jack.

Thirteen years ago the Canadian Northern railway, which might as well be called "The Mackenzie and Mann," so thoroughly are their names identified with it, began at Gladstone, 75 miles from Winnipeg, and ran 100 miles to nowhere, with three engines and annual fixed charges of $40,000. Now the Canadian Northern has more than 5000 miles of track and a steamship line, so that ultimately when Mr. Mackenzie goes to London for more money he can take the clear cut to Vancouver without setting foot on any but his own ships and cars.

The success of Mackenzie and Mann in railroad building on their own account is due to their knowledge of the country and the fact that they do the whole job themselves—projecting, financing, building and operating.

Mr. Mackenzie gets the money and Mr. Mann spends it, and then "its up to Hanna," to make the train go. Who's Hanna? He is the nearest approach to a general manager that the Canadian Northern railway has—Mr. D. B. Hanna, a tall, angular Scot, with energy that shows in his eyes, and a way of turning commercial hardships into benefits.

One day the first year he was connected with the Canadian Northern railway he was riding on a train in company with the butcher who supplied meat to the contractors on the line. The train ran over a cow. Mr. Hanna got out, interviewed the aggrieved owner of the cow, sold the cow's carcass to the butcher, paid the farmer his full claim and turned $1.50 of profits into the company's treasury, having delayed the train just thirteen minutes.

PIONEER RAILROADING

Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann are great exponents of pioneer railroading. They are projecting railroads into a new country, and therefore they believe roads should be pioneer affairs. They do not attempt to make low grade lines costing enormously and running up the fixed charges. They built the road as cheaply as possible in order to keep the fixed charges at a low point where the revenue derived from the new country will make the enterprise sustain itself.

As the revenue increases the road is improved. Where seven years ago the fixed charges were $4.50 a mile they now are $600. As a result the road has never failed to meet its fixed charges. This gives Mr. Mackenzie great strength when he goes out to raise money in London. Somewhere over there he has a gold pot and for every hundred thousand guineas that he used to obtain he now gets a million. Seldone does he return from London with less than $10,000,000 subscribed.

Like many successful human teams, Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann are unlike personally. The most attractive characteristic of their union is the manner in which they pull together. Surely during their long association one of them must have made some stroke of policy of which the other did not approve, but there has never been a rift so far as the outside world could see. Mr. Mann is more than six feet tall and has a frame that looks well in a blue shirt and overalls out on the line, or in neat tweeds at the Woodbine races, or in evening clothes at the Toronto club.

Fire Fighting With- out Fire Engines

The alarm comes in over the regular circuit, the siren sounds the appropriate number, which is also registered by perforation on a tape, on which also is noted the time by a clock. If the alarm is one for the station, the operator immediately grasps the lever of the marine telegraph, and the signals to start are sounded and shown on the large indicator on the wall. The crew spring immediately to their places, the chief engineer at the switchboard and the others and machinists at their appointed stations. From the switchboard everything can be controlled and regulated. The current is switched to the motors, and the power is pumped as soon revolving; another switch opens electrically controlled valves regulating the water supply, while recording and other meters and indicators are before the eyes of the chief engineer. Not every fire requires the flood of water that can be set in motion from the station, and the standing order is to start one pump, regulate the pressure at the outlet at 125 pounds. The next order must come from the chief of the fire department at the fire, and may be a call over the telephone to increase both water supply and pressure or an order to shut down the pumps. The chief at the fire is even in closer touch with the pumping station than he could be with a number of separate engines located at the scene of activity. The scene within the station when the pumps are in operation is hardly one of extraordinary activity, and no greater excitement is manifested than in a well appointed power plant. The electric control of the chief is so complete that he does not need to leave his position at the switchboard, and with ear open for orders and eye on his meters and indicators, the entire situation is at his command.

Outside with the fireman there is a great deal of activity, and the pressure working has occasioned certain changes in equipment and methods. From the beginning the high pressure required the best and strongest hose procurable, and this in sufficient quantity is carried in large wagons. These hose carts are moved from the rear of the fire houses, from which they followed the engines, to the front and are given right of way over other apparatus in the street. When the reliability of the high pressure service was established, for most alarms the engines were not sent out, but held in reserve in the fire houses. In two houses the engines were entirely removed and double section hose companies substituted. As the hose is heavy, the work of carrying and hauling it is particularly arduous so that, in this respect, the labor of the firemen at the fire has not been lightened by mechanical progress. The automobile hose wagon used by the New York Fire Department, however has demonstrated its complete usefulness for transporting the heavy loads of 2 1/2 inch hose much more rapidly than the tenders drawn by horses. Immediately on reaching the fire, the hose is unloaded, a length connected with the hydrant outlet, of which there are four, and successive lengths are laid to the scene of action. The former engineer of the fire engine with his lever key takes his position at the hydrant, and watching the pressure gauge at the outlet, opens and shuts the valves as ordered. The line is stretched where the exigencies of the occasion demand; perhaps to the stand-pipe connection, which must be placed at the sidewalk close to the building, and must be used by the firemen for the higher stories, or it may be used in connection with a fire in an adjoining building. The connection may be made to the sprinkler system of the building or a similar outlet or to a cellar pipe to flood the basement, or two lines may be slung into water power. The permanent nozzle holders of the hose wagon may be used, while for a single size in the trial nozzle holders are employed, as the powerful pressures render holding the hose and directing it practically impossible even for two or three firemen. The hose may even have to be hoisted up onto a fire escape, and three fasteners or clamped with one of the devices which have been developed for this purpose. Now a single line from one of the four outlets is practically as powerful as that derived from a fire engine so that the concentration of pumping power on any single block can be appreciated. Further, when it is realized that these streams can be delivered with a force sufficient to test all comers and make their way into the very seat of the fire, their power may be appreciated.

The Alberta Sunday School Association will hold a district conference at Frank on the evening of July 6th. Association speakers will address gatherings at Bellevue, Frank, Blairmore and Coleman on Sunday next.

Clark's moving Pictures will be shown on Saturday July 2nd. A special feature this week will be the moving pictures of the funeral of King Edward. This will be highly interesting and everyone should see it.

Lee Fung, who was employed at the Coleman hotel was fined $20.00 and costs last Saturday. Lee Fung was closely associated with the disappearance of kitchen utensils. Justice Gresham of Frank was on the bench.

C. H. Clark while in Blairmore on Monday left his team tied up in front of a hotel. He left both of his sons in the buggy and during his absence a motor cycle frightened the team. Both boys were thrown out but miraculously escaped without any injuries. This is not the only accident through the same cause.

The Election's

Both Premier Efton and attorney General Mitchell were elected by large majorities in Vermilion and Medicine Hat respectively. The Premiers majority is 300 and Mitchell's 372.

What Do You Know About Lethbridge

Do you know her building permits reached $354,500 in the one month of May this year? Do you know that three more lines of railroads are heading for Lethbridge, the commercial centre of an inland empire, vast as to riches of coal and resources—two wonderful assets—either one of which has made a metropolis many a time in the past and has continued to uphold it in the future.

The World is Crying for Productive Soil. The World is Determined to be Comfortable hence the positive assurance for the demand what Lethbridge has.

One year ago Lethbridge had a population of 9,000; today she has about 14,000, the pace is set, will she go back? Certainly not, not as long as the present people live for they will have bread and comfort and Lethbridge has got "the makings." Knowing that you people in the Crow's Nest Pass are great wage earners and that you have no particular opportunities for investment at home, I am going to give you the opportunity of making investments elsewhere without paying the expense and large commission of a travelling solicitor or even a middle man in your own town, which you have been paying heretofore, especially when buying real estate. I am going to cut out the solicitor and middle man so as to give you Lethbridge City property at its present true market value.

Furthermore, I am going to give you positive assurance that I will sell you no lots excepting that they be

HIGH, DRY AND LEVEL

Now should any of you doubt that this statement is an assurance, ask your lawyer if I am not making myself liable and subject to a very heavy fine as well as the returning of your money with costs, if at any time you secure from me a lot that is not high, dry and level which I have advertised in your local paper. But putting this all aside, kindly remember that I mean business. I want your business I want more business. No business can flourish unless done on the square. Enough said.

I have been in the real estate business in the City of Lethbridge for five years and I am still doing business, so I guess you are safe as to my guarantee with out considering any court's action.

If you feel satisfied as to this you can make your investment without the inspection of the property and thereby save yourself a considerable amount of time and expense in addition to illuminating the solicitor and the middle man.

Now let me tell you something regarding the line of growth in this busy city of ours. First, the business centre of Lethbridge is south of the railroad and lies on the extreme west side of the city and the land just north of the railroad and opposite the business district, is held for railroad yards, etc., out to what is known as the North Ward, which begins directly north of the track about one-half mile east of the postoffice. This North Ward is mainly populated by miners and pay laborers, therefore the better residential portion lies to the south east of the business centre and it must continue to grow in that direction as it is now doing, for it cannot go elsewhere.

The additions which I am mainly offering are each immediately south and east of the present residential section, in fact houses are now being built in one of them, "The Alexander Addition" and the other addition "Victoria Park" is held by the city until September 1st of this year.

The Victoria Park was put up at public auction by the city about ten years ago and no lots sold for less than $300 each and some went as high as $500, this on public bidding, today one cannot be bought for less than $400 to my knowledge. Victoria Park lots were bought by the best people in the city for their home property and it adjoins the Alexander Addition on the east, both of which Additions are in the city limits and within one mile circle. This circle centres at Central school which lies three blocks south and three blocks east of the post office which is situated in the most north western part of the business district.

Lots in the above mentioned Additions are in my opinion the most likely to increase in value of any other Lethbridge property and should be most easily turned over as homes are already building in the Alexander Addition and Victoria Park should begin to build up as soon as the city gives possession on September 1, 1910. I am expecting to see lots in the Alexander Addition sell for $500 or $600 each within a year and Victoria Park lots, I am sure will go at 1,000 each within the same period. Both of these Additions are upon the proposed street car line.
